

Sector Course List - Transport

●	GC100	Safety in Call Centres, Headset Users & Acoustic Shock	●	GC113	First Aid at Work Awareness
●	GC103	Occupational Health & Stress in the Workplace	●	GC114	Safe use of Ladders in the workplace
●	GC104	Business Continuity for Small & Medium Enterprises (SME)	●	GC116	Managing Safety in the Crèche
●	GC106	Control of Legionella in the Workplace	●	GC117	Office Safety & DSE Assessment
●	GC107	Corporate Manslaughter and Legislation	●	GC118	RIDDOR Explained & Accident Investigation
●	GC108	COSHH Awareness & Assessment	●	GC119	Manual Handling & Risk Assessment Awareness
●	GC109	Dealing with the Media in Major Incidences	●	GC120	Violence in the Workplace
●	GC111	Emergency Planning/Major Incident Planning	●	GC121	Sharps & Needlestick Injuries
●	GC112	Fire Safety Awareness for Employees	●	SC100	Managing Safety

Completing a Protectus training course will provide you with the understanding and competence to meet the increasing demands of legislation and ensure that both you and your business are positioned to act on them. All Protectus courses can be customised to meet your specific requirements. All delegates will receive a certificate of attendance.

Introduction

The Transport Sector includes the railway, freight transport and national post activities.

Statistics

In 2004/05 according to the HSE:

- There were 22 fatal injuries.
- The number of major injuries was 3,658
- Handling and slip/ trip injuries accounted for 62% of 3,658

Major Injuries	Occupational ill health injuries
Manual handling/musculoskeletal injury	Musculoskeletal injuries
Slips and trips	Work related stress

Legislation

Legislation requires that managers and employees should be competent to perform their work. A person is regarded competent is they have sufficient training, experience and knowledge.

The Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 requires all employers to ensure the safety, health and welfare at work of all employees.

Under the Management of Health and Safety Regulations 1999; regulation 13 requires employers to provide adequate health and safety training.